Advancements in ski industry make the sport safer, more fun

Releasable bindings, high-tech boots combine to make the sport safer.

MICHAEL BEESON
Universe Staff Writer

When you aim your skis downhill and enjoy the snow this winter, you may want to consider the great advances the ski industry has made since its beginning.

According to the United States Ski Association, the oldest pair of skis is stored in the Djurgarden Museum in Stockholm and are estimated to be 10,000 years old. Skis were anciently used as methods of transportation and even came useful for battles in the snow.

Eg Sverre of Sweden was the first to pick up his troops with skis at the Battle of Oslo in A.D. 1200.

Skis were seen in America in the 18th-1800s, but it wasn't until the California gold rush in the 1850s that forty-niners used them to descend Sierra Nevada.

One of the premier skiers at that time was a Norwegian native, John Moen, who carried the mail across Sierra Nevada's in the 1800s. With the use of snowshoes and plank skis, Moen could make the 70-mile mountainous trip from Placerville to Carson City in 3 days. Such speed was unprecedented during that era as the "The History of United States Ski Association" notes.

Utah's first exposure to skiing was by Scandinavian miners in Park City who used their skis as transportation to and from the mines, according to the Park City Historical Museum.

The Scandinavians used their skis for recreation as well, but it was 1932 before the first rope tow was built at what is now the Deer Valley ski resort.

Early skiers would often have to pack their skis on their backs and climb the mountains just to enjoy a few minutes of fun. Mel Fletcher of Park City, a former competitive jumper, first learned to ski in 1928.

"We had to pack our wooden skis on our back and climb up the hill where we would build a jump and ski down," Fletcher said.

To the thanks of millions of skiers, the resorts have evolved. With the advancement of lifts and gondolas, resorts on the Wasatch Front can accommodate between 7,000 and 19,000 skiers per hour.

And where skiing once required some snow to fall, now snow-making machines are available. Park City holds their World Cup annual race over Thanksgiving weekend and can't always rely on Mother Nature to supply enough snow. So Park City has opened their season the last six years primarily with machine-made snow, said Mark Menlove, director of communications at Park City.

"Snowmaking technology is light-years ahead of where it was five years ago," Menlove said.

Contrary to the equipment used just 15 years ago, today's skis, boots and poles make skiing a pleasure, not a pain.

Bill Prue of Jerry's Sport Service in Orem made his first pair of skis from oak barrel staves. He learned to ski in 1948 on his farm that was located where the Utah Valley Community College campus is now.

The first skis were much different than modern skis. The bottom of the first skis were rounded and the edges were curved, which made turning much more of a challenge than the present flat-bottomed fiberglass skis with metal edges. The suggested ski length for beginners was to be the same as the skier's vertical reach, while today it is recommended that the upright ski reach the bridge of the nose. The boots were also lower and were attached to the ski with leather straps.

Prue said skiing on the old types of skis was more dangerous than skiing on modern skis. "If you wiped out with those six to seven foot (skis) flying around, ankles were bound to break," Prue said.

"The single most important advancement in ski equipment was the advent of the releasable binding," Prue said.

The early 1950s brought about ski boots and releasable bindings that drastically reduced the number of injuries.

Skis, boots and bindings are now adjusted to the skier according to weight, height and ability to prevent injury. High-tech boots with numerous adjustments, and even heaters, have replaced the more dangerous low boots.

Whether a expert or a novice, every Wasatch Front resort has full and half-day lessons available.

Prue suggests that beginners take a few lessons periodically to fine-tune their skills.

BYU's Physical Education Department offers a winter semester class for all levels of skiers. There is a $35 charge for bus transportation and an additional $12 charge for a half-day pass at Sundance.

For beginners, most agree that renting is the only way to go. The selection is better and the cost of renting equipment is considerably cheaper when one rents at sporting goods stores rather than at the ski resorts.

Twenty students who considered themselves skiers were asked how much they spent on skiing. On the average, they spent $725 for their skis, boots, bindings, polls, pants and jackets. They also spent between $100 to $300 a year on ski passes.

To save a few dollars, ski passes for some of the resorts can be bought at the BYU Bookstore. Prue summed up his history of skiing with his own advice, "Have fun. That's the big thing, just have fun."

Bumper skiers could slide right into jail

Hookey bobbins is considered a Class C misdemeanor in Provo could bring a $500 fine and 90 days in jail.

QUOSHUA R. GRAHAM
Universe Staff Writer

Sliding on the edge is what hookey bobbins is all about. The winter "sport" of holding on to a car bumper while sliding pulled down an icy roadway can bring a source of entertainment — and a charge with a fine of up to $500 and 90 days in jail. Life and property includes the life and property of those pulling and those being pulled.

Robert West, an assistant city attorney, said depending on the circumstances, hookey bobbins may receive six months in jail and a $1,000 fine for the charge of disorderly conduct or reckless driving. He also said that if the behavior of those participating is severe enough, they could be charged for a felony. In Utah, most traffic violations (as opposed to infractions like parking) are considered misdemeanors.

"The practice is very hazardous and it should be discouraged," said Lt. Craig Geslison of the Provo Police Department.

Hookey bobbins, alias: skeeching, bizzing, buzzing, bumper skiing and bumper sledding, is not a new "sport." Irene Nielsen, 80, from American Fork, remembered one time when she went skeeching with her friends 60 years ago. She said she and her friends used barbed wire to tie a sleigh to the back of a car. While the car was moving, one of the skeechers fell off the sleigh and got caught in the wire.

"That cancelled our sleigh riding for that night," Nielsen said. "It wasn't the smartest thing to do, but we did a lot of things that weren't too smart."

Some Alaskan hookey bobbins do not need roads to slide on. Adjacent to Bethel, Alaska, the Kuskokwim River freezes solid enough for snowplows, automobiles and legal hookey bobbins.

"We don't have any authority to stop them from doing it on the river," said Sgt. Jean Achee, the acting Police Chief and acting lieutenant of the Bethel City Police Department.

The river is technically not considered a highway, but because state-owned snowplows are used to clear a road on the river, Bethel City Police do have the authority to investigate traffic accidents and crimes that happen on the river.

Achee said that hookey bobbins is potentially dangerous, but that in Bethel it has not been a big problem.

"I haven't given a citation for this in a long time. Basically what we do is give them verbal warnings. If they do it in town, they'll receive a citation right on the spot. Basically they stop after we tell them we will give them a ticket for it," he said.

In Alaska, bumper skiing on a state roadway is most often considered a violation (like getting a traffic ticket) which will generally bring a fine of $20. Depending on the severity of the violation, it may bring a fine of up to $299 or can be considered a misdemeanor under the terms of reckless endangerment, which could lead to arrest. Under extreme circumstances, bumper skiers can receive a fine of up to $5,000 and one year in jail.

Achee said he understands the potential pain involved in bumper skiing first hand. "I can tell you from my personal experience — when I was in Fairbanks — it tends to hurt (hookey bobbins). It's dangerous to do but anything is dangerous. Waterskiing is dangerous," Achee said.

The Provo City code pertaining to the activity reads, "No persons riding upon any bicycle, coaster, rollerskates, sled or toy vehicle shall attach the same or himself to any street car or vehicle upon a roadway."

Snowshoes can be used for exercise, recreation

Snowshoes were an important mode of early American transportation.

By BECKY HANSEN
Universe Staff Writer

At first glance, they may appear to be nothing more than two tennis racquets strapped to a pair of snow boots, but snowshoes are an effective means of transportation when winter weather gets nasty.

"Snowshoes have played a part of American history for hundreds of years. They used to be the main mode of winter transportation, but are now used for recreational purposes," said Reed Flygare, owner of Jerry's Sport Service in Orem.

According to many historians, the American Indian developed the snowshoe as it is known today. Originally designed for better maneuvering in deep snow while hunting and traveling, the Indians introduced snowshoes to French explorers in the 1600s.

Today, snowshoeing is more than mere folklore. Forestry personnel, farmers, search-and-rescue teams, ski resort personnel and trappers use snowshoeing for maneuvering in remote areas.

Snowshoes distribute a person's weight over a large wooden or metal frame laced with rawhide, preventing the person from sinking into deep snow.

Some expert snowshoers can travel at speeds exceeding 5 miles per hour, using an outward swinging motion to propel them through the snow.

Recently, snowshoeing has gained popularity as a sport and recreational activity.

The average person has no trouble picking up the sport, Flygare said. "If you can walk, you can snowshoe."

What makes snowshoeing so attractive as a recreational pastime is the low cost involved, he said. Rented snowshoes average $4.25 to $5.50 a week-day. Purchases of snowshoes with binders and frames can cost anywhere between $100 and $200.

Flygare told the story of a 65-year-old man in poor health who was told by his doctor to get some type of intense winter exercise. The man, who loved the outdoors, tried the sport of snowshoeing and was surprised at how health-beneficial his experience was.

When a big snow hits, families with cabins too remote to reach by cars use snowshoes to pack in food and supplies.

Trappers and hunters also use the shoes and many Boy Scout troops use them for winter campouts, Flygare said.

Benjamin Sibbett, 22, a sophomore from Salt Lake City majoring in finance, said snowshoes are an excellent way to get around in areas of thick brush.

"Snowshoes are great for the uphill climb while regular boots just make you slide down the mountain," he said.

Sibbett, who works at Gart Brothers Sporting Goods Co., tried the sport for the first time when he was 17. He said no real skill was necessary to master the sport and he found it to be quite fun.

Hindus destroy 16th-century mosque

AYODHYA, India — Hindu fundamentalists used pickaxes and crow-bars Sunday to raze a 430-year-old mosque they say was built on the site where a main Hindu deity was born. The government declared the nation under its highest security alert and braced for a Muslim backlash.

At least four Hindu militants were killed and 100 others injured by falling debris as the 16th-century Babri Masjid, or Mosque of Babar, was demolished in less than six hours by thousands of frenzied Hindus.

Prime Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao said the destruction of the three-story mosque had pushed the country into "a grave crisis."

About 1,000 people were killed in Hindu-Muslim riots that broke out in northern India in 1990 after Hindu extremists stormed the mosque in the long-standing religious dispute. That crisis brought down the government.

In New Delhi, 20 prominent Muslim leaders met with President Shankar Dayal Sharma on Sunday and expressed "deep anguish and pain."

"Those who have harmed (the mosque) have caused injury to the centuries-old ethos of India," he said. They have "violated the rule of law, the tradition of India of mutual respect for all religions."

Half of '92 Rhodes Scholars are women

LOS ANGELES — Women made up half the 32 Americans named as Rhodes Scholars on Sunday, in their biggest gain since becoming eligible in 1976.

The students include a woman who won one of President Bush's "Point of Light" awards for tutoring children, an aide to Vice President-elect Al Gore and a track star who has modeled in Vogue.

The greatest number of women chosen in each of eight districts in previous years was 14.

The lowest — just two years ago — was five women, while the average is between 10 and 11, said David Alexander, American secretary for the Rhodes Scholarship Trust at Pomona College in Claremont, Calif.

Winners of the scholarships to Oxford University in England were chosen from 1,275 applicants from 350 colleges and universities in the United States.

Official billed school for vacations

OGDEN — Ogden schools Superintendent James West has amassed $40,000 in air fare expenses and charged the school district for lodging while staying at his second home in St. George while on business meetings.

The Standard Examiner, in a copyrighted story Sunday, quoted state prosecutors who said the lodging practice may violate state travel policy.

In a series of three stories — which will continue Monday — the newspaper examined West's travel and expenses during his five-year tenure. The story said West acknowledged billing the district during 12 trips to St. George.

The trips were for meetings, school visits and retreats, West said. West justified the billings, saying the district would have to pay for a hotel otherwise. "I have to lodge somewhere for the meetings," he told the newspaper in a Friday interview. "My place has quite a few expenses, too. You have the payment on the place, you have cleaning fees and everything."

More earthquake faults found in L.A.

LOS ANGELES — Two previously unknown earthquake faults have been discovered in downtown Los Angeles, passing beneath skyscrapers, along the Hollywood Freeway and near Dodger Stadium, geologists said Sunday.

If the faults are active, they could produce quakes measuring 5.5 to 6.5 on the Richter scale.

That would "be very damaging because they are so close to major population centers," said geologist Jim Dolan of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Of more concern is the possibility that the newly discovered Echo Park and MacArthur Park faults may be connected to and rupture at the same time as the deeper Elysian Park fault, which was discovered five years ago, Dolan said.

Government studies have said that even a magnitude-6.5 quake centered under Los Angeles could be far more deadly and damaging than a quake measuring 7.5 to 8.3 on the more notorious San Andreas fault, which is about 35 miles from downtown.

"There are so many faults throughout the L.A. area that adding two more doesn't really significantly heighten the hazard," said Jim Mori, scientist in charge of the U.S. Geological Survey's Pasadena office.

Winter drivers warned to chill out

Those who are unfamiliar with winter driving are advised to slow down and be more cautious.

By MATTHEW S. FRANK
Universe Staff Writer

Though it's not an official winter sport, driving on slick, snowy roads may be one of the season's most difficult and dangerous activities.

A BYU professor says the dangers are even greater among out-of-state students who are unfamiliar with winter driving.

Professor of health sciences Paul Coon, who teaches the driver education teacher certification program, says students make errors that can be corrected by following a few simple tips.

Coon says drivers unfamiliar with slick roads tend to drive too fast and are not aware of the need for greater braking distances or the dangers of locked brakes.

He says students new to winter driving should practice on a large vacant parking area with someone more skilled on handling a car in slick conditions.

The American Automobile Association also publishes a winter driving pamphlet full of preparation tips and driving tactics aimed at avoiding smashups.

The pamphlet gives several pointers to avoid swerving and skidding, some of which include:

- Allow eight to 10 seconds following time, rather than the two seconds recommended on dry roads.

- Before changing lanes, reduce speed then steer steadily to the next lane.

- Minimize braking on slick roads.

- When braking is necessary, plan ahead by applying the brake pedal 12 seconds in advance, if possible.

- Instead of pumping breaks, apply a steady force, but not so strong as to lock the breaks.

- If brakes lock, release pressure on the pedal, and apply less pressure the following time.

If, despite all precautions, swerving still occurs, the AAA has a few suggestions on how to regain control of an automobile. They recommend placing the vehicle in neutral, without applying the brakes, and gently re-guiding the car to the desired direction.

One of the most essential safe winter driving, however, is preparation.

Especially for long trips, the suggests maintaining a stock of important items in the trunk to tackle the snow.

Those items include a scraper, snow brush, small shovel, bag of abrasive material (such as sand), flashlight, flares, jumper cables, extra food and a blanket.

AAA also recommends a full up before winter trips, with attention to the brakes, light steering systems of the car.

Clinton team looks for a modest plan to prod economy

Associated Press

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — The economic team that President-elect Clinton names this week may wind up overseeing a much more modest short-term stimulus package than first envisioned, transition advisers suggest.

A search for ways to prod the economy without widening the deficit is intensifying as recent economic reports point to improving conditions.

Instead of plans to funnel large amounts of money into state transportation projects, Clinton's aides said over the weekend they are now scrutinizing less costly and more innovative plans.

These include a scheme to refinance some of the $4 trillion national debt by taking advantage of current lower interest rates. Another plan would ease certain federal bank regulations to make loans easier to obtain.

The team, busy preparing options for Clinton, is also looking with less enthusiasm on major transportation and airport construction projects with long lead times.

Instead, less costly but equally labor-intensive projects to repair and rehabilitate existing highways, bridges and structures are being eyed more favorably.

Clinton has said he'll start naming members of his economic team this week. Transition and Democratic sources said he'd decided on Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as treasury secretary and New York investment banker Roger Altman as deputy secretary.

Transition and Democratic sources said that the leading candidates to be budget director are House Budget Committee chairman Leon Panetta, D-Calif., and former Congressional Budget Office director Alice Rivlin.

Transition officials welcomed Friday's report showing the fifth consecutive monthly decline in unemployment, down to 7.2 percent in November from 7.4 percent in October.

Utah hopes to attract 2002 Olympics by building speed skating oval, luge bobsled run and Olympic-sized ice skating rink will also be constructed.

KAREN JOHNSTON
Staff Writer

Plans in Utah, along with millions of dollars, are underway to build a speed skating oval, an ice bobsled and luge facility in preparation for the Olympic Winter Games in 2002.

In 1989, Salt Lake City obtained an official bid for the United States as a candidate to host the Olympic Winter Games. As part of an agreement to be eligible for the bid as the host city for the Olympic Winter Games in 2002, all facilities must be built by 1995.

The International Olympic Committee will not select the host city until 1995.

The bobsled and luge tracks are being built in Summit County at Bear Hollow near Park City, and will include the needed facilities that Utah lacks.

The project has a budget of over $20 million according to the Olympic Bid Committee.

Okland Construction has the contract for building the project and is scheduled to start construction of the track and support buildings in April 1994, with construction completed in October 1995. The facility will be open to the public in the winter of 1995, according to the Utah Sports Authority.

The ice sheet will be built in Ogden on Weber State University's campus near the Dee Events Center. Glenna Elton, secretary of the Utah Sports Authority, said Weber State University donated the land for the facility.

The project has a budget of almost $8 million.

Elton said $3 million of the funding for the project will come from the Utah Sports Authority and the remaining $5 million will be raised by the Ogden community.

The Olympic-size ice rink will hold over 2,000 spectator seats, a concession area, lounge, dressing rooms and lockers and several support buildings. Construction started in the spring of 1992 and is expected to be completed by fall 1993.

Elton said the ice rink will be open to the public for a fee. This fee will help with some of the cost for the rink's construction.

The speed skating oval is to be built at the Oquirrh Park and Fitness Center in Kearns.

This site was chosen by the Utah Sports Authority in October 1992 over the Salt Palace in Salt Lake because it will be a year-round facility and will benefit the community before and after the Olympics.

Allan Lipman, a committee member for the Utah Sports Authority, said, "We have to look at (the Olympics) as being more than just an 18-day event."

The cost to build the facility will be $14.5 million.

Elton said construction for the site will begin soon and is to be completed by 1995 for public use.

The Utah Sports Authority was formed in 1990 by the State Legislature to promote and oversee the necessary building arrangements of the Olympic facilities that Utah lacked to qualify for the final bid.

Other facilities that are being built or improved are a winter sports park, ski jumps and a summer freestyle aerial facility, to be constructed and finished by 1995 near Park City in Bear Hollow, according to the Utah Sports Authority.

Cross-country skiing building in popularity

Staff Sports Writer

Cross-country skiing is gaining popularity around the world and in Utah.

The growing popularity of cross-country skiing is due to the sport's many benefits, said Sam Catmull, last year's BYU Sundance Nordic center director.

"You exercise every muscle group in your body, not to mention the cardiovascular benefits," Palmetier

Sam Palmetier, Sundance Nordic center director, said Paul O'Connor, 33, a senior majoring in nutrition. "You can take up the sport at all different levels," he said.

O'Connor and a group of cross-country skiers are starting a club on campus. The club, which just turned in its charter Friday, has a unique international flavor with members from Finland, Germany, Ireland, France, Canada and the United States. The club is welcoming anyone interested in cross-country skiing, whether they have tried the sport or not.

"The main purposes of the club are to encourage the sport, to help beginners learn to cross-country ski and to prepare skiers for competition," O'Connor said.

Many cross-country ski areas exist in the area. Sundance has 14 kilometers of cross-country trails. Other areas with excellent cross-country trails are Park City, Wasatch State Park, White Pine, Jeremy Ranch, Sun Valley and the Payson Boy Scout Camp.

Ice skating rinks in Provo, Salt Lake encourage people to learn to skate

structor says ice skating is not that hard, if you practice.

ANIRINA LARKIN
Staff Writer

For going to keep your balance while skating across frozen water on thin blades of steel with a partner, a sweetheart or friend is as enjoyable and affordable for the young, as well as the young at heart at ice skating rinks in Provo and Salt Lake City.

"It is not that hard," said Joleen Wolfe, a professional ice skating instructor at the Bountiful Recreation Complex who has been teaching for more than 10 years.

Ice skating is more a matter of getting out on the ice and practicing. It has been instruction to learn techniques such as going backwards, stopping, etc., but anybody can get out on the ice to experience ice skating without the need of lessons.

Provo offers two seasonal ice skating rinks where people can go to practice or learn how to skate.

Seven Peaks, located on the east side of Center Street on Seven Peaks Parkway, and Utah Lake

State Park Skating Rink, at 4400 West Center, are open seven days a week — weather permitting.

The cost of ice skating in Provo ranges from $1.75 for children to $2.50 for adults. Skate rentals are $1.

Seven Peaks also offers group ice skating lessons at $30 for six sessions of a half an hour each. Ice skating students are also given free practice time on the ice after each lesson, said a Seven Peaks spokesperson.

"The youngest ice skating student we have seen was 18 months old and the oldest was 70-years-old," Midgley said.

BYU 93, Utah St. 83

LOGAN—Nick Sanderson set a school record for 3-pointers made, scored 30 points and hauled down 11 rebounds to lead BYU past Utah State 93-83 Friday.

Sanderson made seven of the 12 3-pointers he attempted in teaming with Ryan Cuff (16 Minutes, 11 points, three assists) to help the Cougars overcome a foul-plagued effort by the front line.

Jared Miller (9 points) and Gary Trost (8) fouled out. Russell Larson, back in the lineup after a one-game absence, tallied four fouls, but had nine points, four rebounds and five blocked shots in 14 minutes. His back still bothered him a little, "but I'm playing 100 percent," he said.

BYU head coach Roger Reid said, "Our second team won the ballgame. That's why it's nice to have good depth. You can't win ballgames without it."

It was BYU's 13th straight win over the Aggies and raised the Cougars' record to 2-0. BYU plays Weber State Tuesday in Ogden. —TAD WALCH

Bonds' deal dead?

AP—Barry Bonds waited 30 minutes Sunday night for a press conference to begin — he was to be announced as the richest player in baseball history.

But the San Francisco Giants — at least for now — stood him up.

The Giants' said Sunday night that no news conference would be held. Whether the tentative $43.75 million, six-year agreement still existed was unclear.

The deal appeared to be done and Bonds' agent informed reporters late Saturday night of the planned news conference. But the contract is hung up over the impending sale of the Giants.

Prospective owners negotiated the deal with Bonds' agents, but though they have been running the team for a week, Bob Lurie officially still owns the Giants.

"We wouldn't have signed Bonds," Lurie said. "If (the sale) falls through, we would not want Bonds as a member of the Giants at that price, although he is a fine player. They need our approval."

Spikers beat Santa Clara, to play USC in Sweet 16

By JENNY SIDDOWAY
Universe Sports Writer

The BYU women's volleyball team advanced to the Sweet 16 in the NCAA tournament by sweeping Santa Clara in three games Friday night.

The Cougars upped their record to 28-3 with the 15-4, 15-13, 16-14 victory.

Santa Clara fell to 21-11.

BYU overcame a two-year, first-round jinx — the Cougs had lost first-round home matches both times. No. 7 BYU now enters the West Regional, hosted by two-time defending champ UCLA, and faces No. 11 University of Southern California Friday.

"Obviously, we had a slow start," said Santa Clara head coach Laurie Corbelli. "It is hard to get into a match against a team that is so strong. They threw all their guns at us. We were prepared, but got double the gun powder we expected. It was hard for us not to be overwhelmed."

After coasting through the first game and a half, the Cougars had to buckle down to defeat the young Broncos. BYU watched its 7-2 second-game lead turn into a 13-11 deficit. The Cougars tied the game, 13-13. An out-of-rotation call gave BYU the lead and a Tea Niemenin kill ended the game. In the final game, BYU's 14-10 lead turned into a 14-14 knot. Again, Niemenin ended the match with consecutive kills.

Cougar coach Elaine Michaelis was not pleased with her team's effort but admitted there were many positives that enabled them to win. As a team, the Cougars had 80 digs, 11 service aces and 11 blocks. "We had the determination and intensity to make the plays. It was exciting volleyball," Michaelis said.

Shannan Skidmore led the Cougar attack with 16 kills. Michele Fellows added 14 kills and 13 digs and reserve Carol Rawson recorded 10 kills and five blocks.

CAMPUS

BYU ROTC to present portrait of Mormon

STEPHANIE TRAVELLER
Universe Staff Writer

The Army ROTC will unveil a portrait bust of Mormon, a prophet and general in the Book of Mormon, today at 2 p.m. in the ELWC Memorial Lounge.

State Pinnock, a BYU graduate, commissioned last year to create a portrait of Mormon. In addition, Pinnock also created a bust of Mormon.

The painting and bust depict Mormon at the age of 24. "That age was selected because that is the age when most BYU students graduate," Pinnock said.

"It's important for them to realize that they can also accomplish many great things," said Lt. Col. Paul Searle, a professor of military science.

FELLOWSHIP ALERT

Cox to speak on conserving rainforest, student efforts

By AMY LEAVITT
Universe Staff Writer

Paul Cox, BYU botany associate professor will be speaking to BYU students about what they can do to become involved in rain forest conservation on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the JSB auditorium.

Cox, who is known internationally for his work to save the Samoan rain forest, will speak to students about the rain forest and the Samoan people's struggle to protect the forest and how students can assist their efforts.

"The people of Falealupo village have struggled to protect the forest from loggers, even though their village has been decimated by a hurricane," Cox said.

"I have seen the villagers go hungry, without food and shelter, and still refuse to accept money offered to them by the logging companies. Through their courage the Samoan people have been an inspiration to the world."

The villagers are protecting a rain forest which, according to an article in BYU Today, is the home of 40 percent of the plants found nowhere else in the world.

Cheney: U.S. troops to restore order

Associated Press
WASHINGTON — U.S. troops may round up and disarm the warring Somali gunmen who block the delivery of aid to the starving, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said Sunday, but he insisted Americans will not get bogged down in a guerrilla war.
Cheney, in an appearance on NBC's "Meet the Press," said the first order of business for 30,000 troops being sent to Somalia will be to "restore some semblance of order" and that means dealing with the guns, mortars, artillery and other weaponry amassed by the nation's warlords.

"We may well want to go in and round up troops or weapons. We might want to offer a bounty" so people turn in their guns, Cheney said.
"We will be concerned about any potential military threat to our own forces, to the relief workers, and we will, in fact, have to deal with some of those elements in order to achieve our objective," Cheney said.
Marine Commandant Carl Mundy

echoed Cheney's comments, saying he hoped U.S. troops encounter "a peaceful disarmament," but he said troops will be ready to meet any challenge if they don't.
"We are prepared to take whatever measures we have to to achieve disarmament," the four-star general said in an appearance on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley."
The Marine general said he believed U.S. forces in the region will begin moving into Somalia "in about two days." The troops will be allowed to return fire if fired upon, Mundy said.

In the annual Christmas address from The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints at Temple Square in Salt Lake City Sunday, President Thomas S. Monson said members who really want to capture the spirit of Christmas in their hearts should realize it is really the spirit of Christ.
President Monson, second counselor in the First Presidency, said since the birth of Christ when the wise men brought gifts to the Christ Child, people have reached into their hearts to give, but "the only true gift is a portion of one's self," he said.

"Give your heart as a gift to Christ," President Monson said. Obedience to the Spirit of Christ will bring peace to the earth because it means good will to men.
President Monson said the woman who was inspired to give a special child's orthopedic walker to her neighbors was a "willing vessel" of giving to others and therefore to the Lord. The neighbors were compiling goods to bring relief to orphans in Romania.
Though the walker was not included on the list of relief supplies requested from Romania, upon arrival, her neighbors found it was needed. A doctor who was treating a young handicapped child asked if they had brought him a child's orthopedic walker.

"It was a modern-day miracle," President Monson said.
The First Presidency also issued its annual Christmas message Friday and said although this time of year brings joy and warmth to many, there are others who grieve and suffer during this time because of war, hunger and other afflictions.
They said members of the Church should serve those who suffer their deeds, thoughts and pray. They also said members should rededicate themselves during Christmas time to develop characteristics of charity.

Solutions from your Apple Campus Reseller: The Apple Computer Loan.

"I expected to pay a lot more than $35 a month for a new Macintosh IIsi and a printer."

Jennifer Minaya
Nursing Major

Jennifer obtained an Apple Computer Loan* that allowed her to buy her Apple® Macintosh® IIsi and an Apple Personal LaserWriter® LS printer. She knew that owning a powerful Macintosh computer for her full course load and her work as a doctor's assistant was a smart thing to do. And the Apple Computer Loan was the smart way to do it: easy application, fast turnaround and low, flexible payment terms. So Jennifer went to the only place that offers the Apple Computer Loan, her Apple Campus Reseller.

Macintosh. It's more than a present, it's a future.

For more information visit the
or call 378-3740

*Based on Jennifer Minaya's Apple Computer Loan of $3,077.76, her monthly payment was $35 (interest only) as of 10/7/92. Principal payments may be deferred up to 4 years. The interest rate is variable, and is based on the average of the higher of the 30-day or 90-day commercial paper rates as reported in the Wall Street Journal, plus a spread of 5.35% (not to exceed 5.6%). The term of the loan is 8 years with no pre-payment penalty. The total finance charge on every $1,000 borrowed will be $543.38. Each applicant pays a $35.00 non-refundable application fee. Approved borrowers will be charged a 4% loan origination fee. The loan origination fee will be added to the requested loan amount and repaid over the life of the loan. For the month of October 1992, the interest rate was 7.6% with an APR of 8.85%.
